I will answer for the beginner and for the advanced student. 1. For the beginner, perhaps the best book is by a world-class World Historian, name...Â The book offers a summary of the most prominent philosophers till date including Aristotle, Plato, Nietzsche, Kant, Schopenhauer and so on. The book reads like a story, one philosophy bleeds into another. Philosophy is often considered to be the ultimate 'ivory tower' discipline along with mathematics. It is therefore unsurprising that philosophers have sometimes turned their attention to efforts to examine history itself and the nature of historical knowledge. These reflections can be grouped together into a body of work called âœphilosophy of history.â€Â And, of course, the historian faces an even more basic intellectual task: that of discovering and making sense of the archival and historical information that exists about a given event or time in the past. Historical data do not speak for themselves; archives are incomplete, ambiguous, contradictory, and confusing.
