FROM THE PRESIDENT:
"OFF TO A RUNNING START"...

SUNYLA is "off to a running start" this year! Although the 1993/94 academic year has just gotten underway, the SUNYLA Executive Board and Council have already been at work.

The Executive Board met on July 23, 1993 at SUNY Albany for a very productive planning session, and the full Executive Board and Council met on September 10, 1993 at SUNY Central to begin work on an array of important issues. Discussion at the two meetings was lively, informative, and very productive. Among the topics of discussion at the two meetings were: 1) plans for the 1994 SUNYLA Conference at Oswego (yes, plans are already well underway, and you will be seeing more about the Conference in upcoming issues of the Newsletter and on SUNYLA-L); 2) possible "joint ventures" and increased cooperation with COA/TOA/FACT and the SUNY Council of Head Librarians (SCOLD); 3) how to address possible changes to the SUNYLA By-Laws; 4) progress on the new SUNYLA Gopher; 5) the establishment of a new Special Interest Group (SIG) for Library Professionals (see page 7); 6) regional workshops; 7) progress on the establishment of the Distinguished Librarian rank and 7) the plans for each of the SUNYLA Committees. Whew -- and that's not even the half of it!

The full Executive Board and Council will meet next on December 3rd, 1993 in Syracuse. If you have a question, concern, comment, etc. that you would like to see SUNYLA address, contact the Delegate on your campus, an Officer or Council member, or me. Honest, we are all glad to hear from you!

And, speaking of "hearing" from, have you renewed your SUNYLA membership? How about your colleagues? How about that new librarian or library professional on your campus (first-time membership is only $7.50)!? To become a member or to renew your membership contact your Delegate.

Also speaking for "hearing" from you, I want to take this opportunity to encourage you to take a more active role in SUNYLA. New Committee members are always welcome, and all it takes is a phone call or e-mail message to a Committee Chair. I know that they will be glad to hear from you.

INTERNET GOPHER ARRIVES AT SUNYLA

Higher education is continually bombarded by promises of the electronic library through such national initiatives as the NREN and NII (National Information Infrastructure). From a practical standpoint, SUNYLA members need to utilize existing network technology on a day to day basis in our jobs. What resources and tools would benefit a geographically diverse organization with varying levels of access to networked resources? The Automation Committee started working this past June on the possibility of an Internet gopher for SUNYLA. The SUNYLA gopher proposal was accepted at the September Executive Board Meeting. The following will provide a brief explanation of Gopher technology, possible application in SUNYLA, and information on accessing the SUNYLA Gopher.

What is Gopher?
Gopher is a program developed at the University of Minnesota which presents Internet resources to users as a series of menu choices which can be readily adapted to local user needs as available Internet resources grow and change. The Gopher is public domain software (for non-commercial users) written for a wide variety of computer platforms. While the Gopher software is available free of charge from the University of Minnesota, a library (or campus) must also have network access to the Internet to utilize the Gopher. The software uses the much touted client/server model of information access and retrieval. Client/server technology means that a user runs a "client" program which sends a message to a corresponding "server" program on another computer, which could be across campus or across the country. The server program retrieves the information requested, and returns the information to the client. The client then presents the information back to the user. The information may be a text file, a directory, a telnet session, an image file, etc. This division of labor between client and server also means that the Gopher uses computer time efficiently and Gopher clients and servers can be run on relatively small machines. The Gopher is termed a distributed information resource because no one server (computer) needs to maintain all the files.

Uses of Gopher in SUNYLA
As alluded to earlier, logistical issues in SUNYLA include covering a large region and varying levels of network access.
Gopher addresses both these issues by providing access through any Internet connection and virtually instantaneous transfer throughout the state. The SUNYLA Gopher menu allows the user to view SUNYLA information without having to know who has the information or on what computer it is stored. Possibilities for information dissemination include: SUNY grant opportunities and proposals, institutional tenure criteria, SUNYLA Member Directory, documents on studies at SUNY libraries, documents from the SUNYLA Clearinghouse, publications and announcements from SUNYLA committees, and the SUNYLA Newsletter. In addition to being able to view the information, a keystroke can transfer a copy to the user's computer account.

Directions to Access Gopher

Most SUNY campuses have some form of access to the Internet through SUNYNET or NYSERNET. Check with your campus computer center for information on computer accounts and to find out if a Gopher client is running on your campus computer. Two sets of instructions follow: the first for users without Gopher clients and the second for users with Gopher clients running on campus computers.

1) Campuses Without a Gopher Client:

If your campus computer has access to the Internet but does not yet offer a Gopher client, you can log on to your campus computer and "Telnet" (remote logon) to a computer that has a "public" Gopher client running, i.e. one that you can use without a special userid/password.

SUNYLA members: Please consult the paper copy of the SUNYLA Newsletter, October 1993, for further information.

2) Campuses With Gopher Clients:

Set a pointer to:

Name=SUNY Library Association Gopher (Experimental)
Type=1
Port=70
Path=1/SUNY Library Association Gopher (Experimental)
Host=baryon.hawk.plattsburgh.edu

Using the SUNYLA Gopher

After starting Gopher select the following from the Root Directory:
5. SUNY Library Association Gopher (Experimental)

The Gopher was brought up on an experimental basis and currently distributes the following menu:
1. About the SUNYLA Gopher/
2. LAIP/SUNY OCLC Experimental Gopher/
3. Library of Congress Marvel/
4. SUNY Fact Papers on Information Technology (via UBVM)
5. SUNYLA Newsletters/
6. Understanding and Using Gopher/

Basic Commands:
? help
/ further menu levels (directories)
. end of menu level, text document
u move up one level
q quit Gopher

Further information about Gopher is available under option 6 "Understanding and Using Gopher/". The Whole Internet User's Guide & Catalog by Ed Krol also offers a chapter on Gopher. Questions and comments about the SUNYLA Gopher can be sent to the following Automation Committee members: Karen Volkman (volkmake@snyplava), Keith Ostertag (ostertagk@snycorva), Roger Gifford (rdg28@albnyvms), Holli Rossi (rossiha%slscva@snycenva.bitnet), and Peter Wei He

The deadline for turning in all the applications is February 1994. For more information about sessions, contact Peter Wei He at (518)442-3550 or peterhe@albnyvms.bitnet.

SUNYLA LIBRARY INSTRUCTION SURVEY RESULTS

In the Spring of 1992, the SUNYLA Committee on Library Instruction sent out a survey to all SUNY libraries to assess the amount of library instruction being done by librarians. Sixty-six out of 83 surveys were returned, with some branch libraries combining their statistics with the main campus libraries, so the rate of return rate was actually better than 80%. The following survey results document the teaching activity of instruction and reference librarians.

Comments Regarding Teaching Load

Thirty-nine libraries indicated there had been an increase in teaching load; reasons cited: staff cuts, increased enrollment, increased demand. Comments: "We can only do so much." "Insufficient time/energy to develop full-blown BI." "We have more potential for involvement but not an increase in staff hours available." "Can't do outreach due to heavy workloads." "Cut in staff means fewer doing more."

STATE PROGRAMS OFFERING SUPPORT FOR RESEARCH AND PROFESSIONAL GROWTH

The following is a brief overview of programs currently available to SUNYLA librarians which offer financial support to those participating in professional activities.

SUNYLA's Regional Workshop Program

The SUNYLA Council has again allotted funding to seed regional workshops. This year $300 is available for this purpose. Any SUNYLA member who is interested in organizing a meeting on some topic of interest to the profession can apply for this support. A "region" is a group of campuses within daily commuting distance of a SUNY location where the meeting will take place. Those interested in applying, or who would like more information, should contact Richie Feinberg of the Professional Development Committee at (516)632-7110 or rfeinberg@sbcmail.

NYS/UUP Professional Development and Quality of Working Life Committee Librarian Study Leave Program

The second round of this PDQWL program is now underway. Awards are granted to librarians who will be incurring expenses related to planned activities such as research, publishing, grant writing, workshop and conference participation, attendance at institutes, and even professional reading. Activities are to take place between July 1, 1993 and June 30, 1994. Maximum award is $5,000. Guidelines and application forms are available locally and the deadline for submission is March 15, 1994.

Last year's round of PDQWL grants saw forty-eight SUNY librarians receiving support. No eligible applicants were turned down. Nevertheless, a significant amount of funding set aside for Librarian Study Leaves was not awarded because many of us did not apply for this grant. Late announcement of the program's availability may have played a role in this. However, for the second round, there is still a good deal of time left to think of worthwhile study leave activities that could be applied for. We strongly encourage our membership to take advantage of this excellent professional development opportunity.

Campus Tuition Waivers

There are two sources for this kind of support. First, the UUP Tuition Assistance Program permits members to enroll in SUNY courses free of charge if space is available. Employees are entitled to a waiver of up to four credits for one course each Fall and Spring semester, as well as one Summer session course. The second source is the state's tuition program which allows for a partial waiver on one three credit, job-related course per semester. Terms of this second program may vary from campus to campus.

Details on both programs should be available at local UUP and personnel offices.

Conversations on the Disciplines Awards

Sponsored by the Provost's Office, this program offers financial resources for inter-campus scholarly conferences. It supports meetings which bring together SUNY faculty and others to examine trends, review research, and become better acquainted with professional developments. Single and joint applications are considered. Maximum awards are for $2500. Application guidelines are available at campus research administration offices. Deadline for applying is the last Monday in January.

Another program, Faculty Grants for Improvement of Instruction, is currently suspended. In the past, this program's purpose was to encourage faculty to develop and implement innovative projects in undergraduate education. Librarians involved in classroom teaching were eligible to apply. The program may be reactivated soon. We will try to keep you informed on its status.

And lastly, SUNYLA's Sylvia Chu Memorial Scholarship will again be available in the spring to those who have been SUNYLA members for not more than the latest three consecutive years and who have never attended a SUNYLA annual conference. The scholarship pays for the winner's conference registration, room, and board. An announcement inviting letters of application will appear in the January newsletter.

Professional Development Committee

SUNYLA - NOT JUST FOR LIBRARIANS!
JOIN THE LIBRARY PROFESSIONALS SIG

Whether we are known as paraprofessionals, support staff, instructional support personnel, or paralibrarians we are professional and committed in every sense of the word. In all of our institutions we play vital roles and are responsible for everything from cataloging to management of the Circulation division. As the roles and parameters of librarianship change it is necessary to change the associations and institutions which cater to and educate this group of people. SUNYLA in the past has focused on librarians. It is time to increase the numbers and resources of this association to more adequately represent the "professionals" who are involved in and committed to making their institution vital and progressive.

At its September 10 meeting the SUNYLA Executive Board approved the formation of a library professionals special interest group. This forum seeks to increase involvement in the organization and deal constructively with issues endemic to libraries and support staff. We are interested in being informed, educated, and involved. The focus will not only be on professional development, classism, union issues, career ladders, permanent appointment requirements, and mentoring may be discussed. With combined membership we can make SUNYLA stronger both in terms of membership and focus.

We need your help. Will you encourage your co-workers and staff to join SUNYLA and the Library Professional special interest group? Will you at least have them contact myself or Donald Keenan for more information? It is proven that when employees get involved they commit themselves to the goals of their institution. If we become interested and excited about issues; increased motivation and production will follow. In addition, as Larry Oberg states in the late spring '93 issue of NYSILAA Network Connection, "problems paraprofessionals have as they try to prove their worth and improve their lot are the mirror image of librarians'." If we join together, the movement towards recognition will gain momentum and everyone will benefit.

If you need membership information please contact your campus delegate. Donald Keenan and I will be your special interest group contacts. We are both employees in the Cataloging Department at the University at Albany. We can be reached at the following addresses:
