This extension allows your site to have 'monthly archives' or 'yearly archives', which are used often on blog-like websites, or to organize a larger archive of news items. This extension takes care of creating the 'list of links', as well as populating the actual archive pages. To use, place the following tag in your template, where you'd like the list of links. You are here: Home. Archives. Monthly Archive. Welcome to our Archives page. On this page you will find a total of 2143 of our articles broken down into Months and Years. - Select Category - Uncategorised (20) -- Latest (51) -- Newsflash (19) Michael Yon (1) -- Michael's Dispatches (942) -- Unsorted Comments (519) -- Guest Authors (497) -- The Battle For Mosul (7) -- Walking the Line (5) -- The Perfect Evil (4) -- Walking the Line 2007 (3) -- RUBS (10) Say I've got a database with about 5,000 blog posts from the last 2 years, I'm trying to create 'monthly' archives so I can display the data in a much more logical way. For some reason I've never really had to work with date's all that much and my knowledge is lacking. I'm using Linq/C#; can someone point me in the right direction to learn how to do this?
