The trustee will see to establishing the trust that will serve as the SPV for the asset securitization. The trustee also must confirm that the trust has received clear title to the assets, free of any claims or charges, actual or implied. When assets are transferred to the SPV at closing, these assets are pledged to the holders of securities issued by the SPV. Since the assets will serve as collateral for the repayment of the securities, the trustee must also confirm that security interests in the assets are perfected in order that the assets will not be vulnerable to the claims of other creditors.
